To the study clubs of Nebraska:-

You are herewith furnished a partial list of the books now in our special loan collection. This list merely indicates the general trend of development in our work. During the coming year, we shall greatly add to our resources, and we are able to see, in the not far distant future, a time when this branch of the work will require all the working hours of a competent person. We shall be obliged if you will make known to all persons to whom such information would be of any advantage, the fact that we are in a position to loan books to clubs or individuals, postage or express both ways to be paid by the borrower.

We are able to place at your disposal a collection of study outlines on a variety of subjects, including:- fine arts; education; child study; domestic science; ancient and modern history; the history, literature, description and art of many countries; Shakespeare; political and social science &c. Upon request, we shall be glad to furnish clubs with copies of these outlines. For special topics for the coming year, we suggest the following:- agricultural conditions in Nebraska, libraries, children's reading, household topics.

Clubs having books belonging to this commission should return them promptly at the close of the club year.

Respectfully,

Edna D. Bullock, Sec'y.
