A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

This is the story of the "unsinkable" TITANIC. She was four city blocks long, with the latest, most ingenious safety devices; a French "side-walk café," private promenade decks—but only twenty lifeboats for the 2,207 passengers on board.

Gliding through a calm sea, disdainful of all obstacles, the TITANIC brushed an iceberg. Two hours and forty minutes later she upended and sank. Only 705 survivors were picked up from her half-filled boats . . .

"All the drama, horror, tragedy of that grim heart-breaking night are here, never before presented in such superb narrative style!"

Ages 7–10

Long, long ago, people invented writing. At first they painted pictures on the walls of caves to tell their stories. Much later they learned to use symbols to count and write. And before long, people were making books!

Early books were etched into damp clay tablets. Later, books were painted on handmade paper and rolled into scrolls. Then books with pages were invented.

Books and libraries are the memory of mankind and the storehouse of human thought and imagination. With a book you can look into the past—or catch a glimpse of the future. Jack Knowlton does an extraordinary job of tracing the development of books and libraries of today. Harriett Barton's glowing paintings truly illuminate the text.

"AN OMINOUS-SOUNDING BOOK NOW OCCUPIES THE SPOT UNDER THE HOLY BIBLE ON PRESIDENT CARTER'S OVAL OFFICE DESK..."—NEWSWEEK

That book is THE THIRD WORLD WAR, a dramatic account of the coming global conflict written by top NATO generals and advisors, and presented to Carter by British Prime Minister Callaghan.

A sensational international bestseller, it is a vivid, detailed, and often blood-curdling on-the-spot report from the battlefronts of a "real" war, from tank assaults to air clashes to ICBM launchings, based on an insider's knowledge of the state-of-the-art weaponry and actual NATO and Soviet battle strategies.

Controversial, factual, fascinating...THE THIRD WORLD WAR is the most unusual publishing event of the decade.

Watching your cholesterol intake has never been easier—or more convenient!

The CHOLESTEROL Counter

Americans are smarter than ever about cholesterol—about half of us know our cholesterol levels, and we're learning more about the role of cholesterol in coronary heart disease and other health problems. Now in its fifth edition, THE CHOLESTEROL COUNTER is updated with thousands of new entries for foods to suit all tastes and lifestyles, as well as the latest information on protecting your health and your heart:

- Heart disease kills more women than men
- More than one million men are diagnosed with heart disease each year
- Ten essential steps to lower your cholesterol
- 20,000 up-to-date entries, each with calorie content—including more than 70 restaurant chains, and popular brand-name and takeout foods
- Listings for natural, organic and vegetarian items
- With new fiber figures—higher fiber means lower cholesterol levels
- Convenient worksheets to keep track of your daily cholesterol intake.

With this clear, comprehensive guide, you can take control of your food choices at home and at your favorite restaurants—and take an important step toward adopting healthy eating habits that will benefit you for life!

The American Bicentennial Series

With all the color and sweep of American history itself, The American Bicentennial Series is a mighty eight-volume saga of heroism and dedication, patriotism and valor, shining spirit and abiding faith.

Here is the story of our nation—and an amazing family living in the turbulent times that began the American nation.

This magnificent American Bicentennial Series of novels is more than absorbing, entertaining reading . . . it is a resounding re-affirmation of the greatness of America.

"O Six Powers of the World, hear me in my sorrow, for I may never call again...
O make my people live!"

In 1931, an old man, standing on Harney Mountain, raised his arms and spoke those words to the empty sky.

His name was Black Elk, warrior and medicine man of the Oglala Sioux. From the Battle of the Little Big Horn, which he witnessed as a boy of 13, to the last terrible massacre of the Indians at Wounded Knee, Black Elk lived the life of the Plains Indian and saw the death of his people.

In this book he tells, as no man can ever tell it again, his vision of the meaning of life on this planet as it was for the Indian of the western plains, and as it might be for all men.

The great story of the Sioux is ended, and the sacred hoop of life is broken, but in this book the spirit of Black Elk's people lives on.

The text of the Bison Book edition of Black Elk Speaks was reproduced from the 1932 edition published by William Morrow & Company. The original title read "as told to" John G. Neihardt. The change to the form now appearing on the title page was made at the author's request. The preface to this POCKET BOOK is entirely new and replaces those that originally appeared in the Morrow edition and Bison Book edition.

The spelling "Ogalala" occurs on pages 51, 79, 94, and elsewhere throughout the text. The spelling now preferred is "Oglala."
