Thinking Outside the Borders

The Nebraska Library Commission motto “Bringing Together People and Information,” was very appropriate for the Thinking Outside the Borders Institute held October 22-26 in Lincoln and concluding at the annual library conference in Kearney. Librarians from Mexico, Brazil, Costa Rica, Colombia, and El Salvador joined with Nebraska librarians to learn about, and discuss, leadership issues of mutual concern. Although the librarians represented a cross-section of types of libraries – public, government, academic, and special, the issues raised were truly international. Funding, staffing, and equity of access were recurrent themes.

After spending a few days with Central and South American colleagues, I was left with two strong impressions. Librarians have a strong finger on the pulse of their countries. They understand well the cultural and political nuances impacting good library services. In addition, size doesn't have to matter – libraries are all about service. Fine librarians worldwide are astute at recognizing the services needed by their clientele and pursuing a method for meeting the need.

The Thinking Outside the Borders Conference proved to be a refreshing reminder that the world can be both big and small at the same time. The physical distances may be great, but within a profession, the issues are very similar.

Janet Stoeger Wilke, Dean
Calvin T. Ryan Library, University of Nebraska at Kearney

Lincoln, NE – Fascinating International Destination

Until recently, I had previously spent at most two hours south of the U.S. border. You know, one of those stereotypical trips to barter over some items that I really didn't need but felt I needed the experience. It took a three-day trip to Lincoln on October 22-24 to get immersed in the cultures, libraries and people of Mexico, Columbia, El Salvador, Brazil, Costa Rica, and Chile.

I was a guest along with several Nebraska librarians and several librarians from the abovementioned countries at an international institute called "Thinking Outside the Borders: Library Leadership in a World Community". The Nebraska Library Commission sponsored this event in partnership with the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign Mortenson Center for International Library Programs.

Laura Johnson, Continuing Education Coordinator for NLC and Barbara Ford, director of the Mortenson Center worked extremely hard putting together a quality leadership institute. I was really impressed with the learning components. Here's a brief rundown:

Clara Budnik Sinay from Santiago, Chile, the Executive Director of the Democracy and Development Foundation, spoke on International Librarianship and related her experiences with public libraries in Chile where limitations on resources are overcome and the people in charge of the libraries are the main actors in transforming their communities by establishing points of service where the people live. Really connecting with a community requires emotional intelligence to share each citizen's needs.

We took a trip north of the U.S. border briefly to hear from Mary Ann Mavrinac, chief librarian, University of Toronto at Mississauga, as she presented the Campbell Leadership Descriptor. Mary impressed upon us that we are all in a learning mode and everyone is a leader regardless of position. What leadership qualities each of us possess can be uncovered by a fun process called the Campbell Leadership Descriptor. What are your strong suits in visioning, managing, empowering, diplomacy, feedback and entrepreneurialism? What is your personal style, level of persona energy, and multicultural awareness? Enquiring leaders need to know!

A couple U.S. presenters included Michael Sauers, Technology Innovation Librarian at the NLC, and Kathryn J. Deiss, Content Strategist at the Association of College and Research Libraries. Michael spoke on "Library 2.0: Creating a Borderless Library" and generated a lot of buzz about the latest buzzwords – MEEBO, Facebook, MySpace, Twitter, RSS, iPhone, perpetual beta, and the list goes on. Kathryn spoke on "Personal Leadership and Communication". Among other things, she introduced us to the Ladder of Inference and "The User Is Not Broken: A Meme Masquerading as a Manifesto" part of a blog by Karen Schneider that you can find at <http://freerangelibrarian.com/2006/06/03/the-user-is-not-broken-a-meme-masquerading-as-a-manifesto/#more-954>.

The real stars of the institute were Germán Arias from Manizales, Colombia; Rocio Cazares from Puebla (not Pueblo), Mexico; Héctor Grenni from San Salvador, El Salvador; Stelina Maria Martins Pinha from Brasilia, Brazil; Jaime Rendon Valencia from Medellin, Colombia; Andrea Gabriela Solís Blanco from Heredia, Costa Rica; and Milton Vargas Prieto from Bogota, Colombia.

These librarians from south of the border had the opportunity to come to the Mortenson Center for two months for a wide variety of learning experiences, and we think the highlight of their experience must have been their visit to Lincoln as well as their attendance at the Nebraska Library Association conference in Kearney. There is so much to say about each visitor, but to get the facts right I need to refer you to <http://www.library.uiuc.edu/mortenson/2007NLA.htm> for their official presentations at NLA.

Missing from these powerpoint presentations are their heartfelt comments at the end of the program about their visit to Nebraska and our new friendships. As they now settle back into their localities and jobs, we will stay in touch in a number of ways. One off-shoot of this institute is the formation of work teams. I'm on a team with Nebraskans Jodene Glaesemann from Lincoln City Libraries and Maggie Tarelli-Falcon from Omaha Public Library as well as Jaime Rendon Valencia from Medellin, Colombia. We have ventured into the brave new world of MySpace to collaborate on leadership in teen services.

If you would like to find out more about our international adventures, take a virtual trip to the Thinking Outside the Borders wiki at <http://thinkout.pbwiki.com/> and the Mortenson Center site at <http://www.library.uiuc.edu/mortenson>.

I look forward to my continuing association with these wonderful international librarians and who knows, maybe someday we will meet again but in the meantime they hold a special place in my heart!

Director, Grand Island Public Library

"Serving Your Spanish-Speaking Customers" Workshops will take place around the state over the course of the next few months. Places and times in our area are:

North Platte: February 7, 2008
Grand Island: February 8, 2008
Valentine: March 5, 2008

Plan now to attend and learn new strategies for serving this important part of our customer base!

On Our Way to PLA 2008!

OF COURSE THERE'S A BUS TRIP!

This will be the fourth annual Road Trip– we're heading up north for the Public Library Association 2008 Conference.

March 24-March 29, 2007

Use the bus trip to network with your peers, catch up on your sleep, finish that book, or watch a movie. But most of all, use the bus for the opportunity to attend a national conference for FREE! That's right, thanks to the Nebraska Regional Library Systems, and to a grant* from the Nebraska Library Commission, there will be no cost for the bus ride. (Riders are responsible for their own hotel arrangements and conference registration.)

The PLA National Conference has a reputation for excellence and offers attendees more than a hundred high-quality educational programs, world-class speakers, a bustling exhibits hall, and countless networking opportunities and social events, making the conference one of the most popular and successful events for the public library world.

The 2008 conference promises more of the same in Minneapolis, a city that continually tops travel destination lists for its cutting-edge architecture, vibrant arts scene, award-winning theatre, tax-free shopping, and renowned restaurants.

Bookmark www.placonference.org and check back often for updated information on registration, conference programming, special events, travel, and insider tips on everything Minneapolis has to offer. John Wood, former executive with Microsoft and founder of Room to Read, will help kick off the conference with an inspirational account of how he left his corporate job to change the world. Kevin Nealon, of 'Hanz & Franz' fame, will do the closing keynote.

Early Bird registration ends January 18, 2008.

Pick-ups for the bus will be in Lincoln, Omaha, & South Sioux City.

So sign up today to join Road Trip 2008!

Please let us know your serious interest as early as possible, so that if we need to reserve a larger bus we can!

Sign up deadline: March 3rd, 2008

Public Libraries and Tech Soup
(<http://www.techsoup.org>)

by John Seyfarth
Sump Memorial Library, Papillion

I have found a great source for public libraries to obtain software and some hardware at great prices, called TechSoup. When I first got on, I was a little suspicious, you know, if it is too good to be true, it usually is. But in this case, many software companies donate software for public libraries in the U. S. and Canada, and for non-profit organizations to TechSoup. Well, being a risk taker, I had to test it! So I needed some upgrades for my software collection, specifically MS Office 2007® and MS Windows Vista®. They don't take POs so I had to put it on my credit card and get reimbursed later. But the price was fantastic; Office 2007® was $20 per set, and Vista Business® was $10 per set. I ordered 15 of each on Friday, and receive my CDs/DVDs on Wednesday the next week. This resulted in a savings of about $1140 over what I could obtain the same software from our normal Nebraska software vendor, and I thought they had a great price!

Well, what do you need to do to get involved? First, go to <http://www.techsoup.com>. Click on the blue tab marked TechSoup Stock. On this screen, there is a link right under the Welcome to Techsoup Stock that is labeled Join TechSoup. Click on it. Read the page, and at the bottom of the page there is a "caramel" color button labeled, Continue to Join TechSoup. Fill out the forms, and follow the screen prompts. Most public libraries are not 501(c)(3) organizations, but you don't have to be. Once registered, and your registration is approved (usually by return E-mail) then you can order items that public libraries are permitted to purchase. If you have any questions, the support persons available by phone (415-633-9300) are most helpful. Also, be sure and read TechSoup's limitations and rules, and be aware that each of the software donor companies also have restrictions that apply.

We the People Bookshelf Grant
deadline January 25, 2008

The We the People Bookshelf, a collection of classic books for young readers, is a project of the National Endowment for the Humanities' (NEH) We the People program, conducted in cooperation with the American Library Association (ALA) Public Programs Office.

Each year NEH identifies a theme important to the nation's heritage and selects books that embody that theme. This collection of theme-related books is the Bookshelf. In addition to introducing young readers to good literature, the Bookshelf promotes understanding of abstract or general ideas through the power of particular stories.

The theme for the Bookshelf is announced at the beginning of each academic year in September. The first four themes were "Courage," "Freedom," "Becoming American," and the "Pursuit of Happiness."

Applications for the "Created Equal" Bookshelf are being accepted online September 10, 2007, through January 25, 2008. Applicants will be notified by March 31, 2008, whether or not they will receive a Bookshelf. "Created Equal" programs will be conducted in libraries between May 1, 2008, and April 30, 2009.

Titles selected for the We the People Bookshelf might highlight important chapters in American history; or express universal themes that are integral parts of American culture. The books are intended to represent the rich texture of the American heritage, a tradition that has incorporated ideas and texts from around the world.

NEH awards the Bookshelves to libraries across the country for use in programs primarily for young people. U.S. public and school (K-12) libraries are eligible to apply. In return for receiving a Bookshelf, libraries organize programs that highlight the theme and encourage young readers to explore the selected books.

The American Library Association (ALA) collaborates with NEH to deliver this program. ALA staff and libraries help to select the books, and work directly with the nation's libraries to disseminate information and to encourage libraries to take part in the "We the People Bookshelf" grant program.
