A Title for Every Book Club

No two book clubs are the same. People who have never been in a book club do not understand that--everybody reads the same book and then talks about it, right? That is essentially true. However, individuals join book clubs for different reasons. Some get friends together and have a great time reading books they all like and eating snacks and drinking wine. Others join a club to meet different, interesting people. Discussing books with people from differing backgrounds gives new and eye-opening perspectives on the books and life in general. Still others look for a book group in order to read things he or she wouldn't otherwise read. Some books need to be discussed. When a group talks about one of those books, everyone goes home feeling like he or she understands the book so much better.

The Nebraska Regional Library Systems and the Nebraska Library Commission have made it a point to collect sets of books to be used by book clubs and classrooms. The intention is to support libraries and schools by making it easy to get a number of copies of the same title. This service allows schools to avoid purchasing multiple copies of a title and libraries don't have to spend time and money borrowing books through Interlibrary Loan. To see the titles available from the Central Plains Library System, click this link: <http://libraries.ne.gov/cpls/book-sets/>. Our newest set includes 14 copies of Black Elk Speaks, by John G. Neihardt. This title was chosen especially for Nebraska's 150th anniversary by the One Book One Nebraska reading program. The program is in its twelfth year of encouraging Nebraskans to read and discuss one book selected from titles written by Nebraska authors or that have a Nebraska theme or setting. Support materials to assist with local reading and discussion activities are available on the Get Involved page.

Black Elk Speaks, the story of the Oglala Lakota visionary and healer Nicholas Black Elk (1863–1950) and his people during the momentous twilight years of the nineteenth century, offers readers much more than a precious glimpse of a vanished time. Black Elk's searing visions of the unity of humanity and Earth, conveyed by John G. Neihardt (1881-1973), have made this book a classic that crosses multiple genres. Whether appreciated as the poignant tale of a Lakota life, as a history of a Native nation, or as an enduring spiritual testament, Black Elk Speaks is unforgettable.

BUILD A BETTER WORLD™

People: Difficult or Different?

Sharon Osenga, CPLS

This webinar, presented by George Myers of Effectiveness Institute, is one of the best I have ever attended!

I am sure that we all have at least one person in our lives that we have difficulties getting along or working with. This webinar explored behavioral differences in people and how to modify behaviors for more trusting relationships.

Behavior vs. Personality: Personality is who we are. Behavior is what we do. Personality cannot be modified in any way by choice. Behavior can be modified by choice.

Myers discussed four areas: How we prefer to make decisions, what kind of environment you want to have around you, what kind and how much accuracy you require, and how you like to engage with other people. Each of these has a spectrum of behaviors.

DECISIONS:

One end of the spectrum is fast gut decisions.
The other end is process through careful consideration.

In a relationship without trust and respect, words that would be used:

Fast Gut: Bossy, pushy, rude
Process: Slow, clinical, indecisive

If you have a healthy relationship with trust and respect, those words can be replaced with:

Fast Gut: Decisive, courageous, fearless
Process: Thoughtful, comprehensive, thorough

ENVIRONMENT:

One end of the spectrum is stable and routine. The other end is dynamic and ever changing.

In a relationship without trust and respect, words that would be used:

Stable: Timid, uncreative, boring
Dynamic: Impulsive, unfocused, random

In a relationship with trust and respect, words that would be used:

Stable: Dependable, consistent, solid
Dynamic: Creative, flexible, energetic

ACCURACY:

One end of the spectrum is the right way or perfection. The other end is get it done or it's close enough.

In a relationship without trust and respect, words that would be used:

Right Way: Rigid, uptight, obsessive
Get It Done: Careless, sloppy, reckless

In a relationship with trust and respect, words that would be used:

Right Way: Precise, defined, truthful
Get It Done: Big picture, shrewd, ingenious

PEOPLE:

One end of the spectrum is socially assertive.
The other end is socially cautious.

In a relationship without trust and respect, words that would be used:

Assertive: Dramatic, shallow, egotistical
Cautious: Insecure, fearful, stuck-up

In a relationship with trust and respect, words that would be used:

Assertive: Confident, self-assured, outgoing
Cautious: Restrained, humble, reserved

In order to move towards better relationships with those whose behaviors are opposite of ours, each person needs to move towards the middle of the spectrum to meet some of the behaviors of the other person.

Five different patterns emerge from the above:

1. Fast Gut, Dynamic, Get It Done, Assertive: these are the verbal, big picture people who get things done.
2. Process, Stable, Right Way, Cautious: these are the people who think through everything and check out all the facts before making a decision. Things must follow rules in order to be done right.
3. Fast Gut, Stable, Perfection, Assertive OR Process, Dynamic, Get it Done, Cautious: These are the thinkers (often genius). They see tomorrow but also honor the past. This behavioral pattern can be very stressful.
4. Learned Balance: This is a very small percentage of the population. They have learned to do things contrary to their personality. They change in order to keep balance with those around them. These people can be very unpredictable – you don't know what to expect from them because they keep changing.
5. Appropriate to the situation.

Taking the time to assess the people in your life that you have problems with along the lines suggested above could result in much better relationships.

Planning our Future While Remembering our Past

PLANNING THE FUTURE

Speaker: Miguel Figueroa
Director of the American Library Association's Center for the Future of Libraries

Miguel will be sharing insights on the following topics:

Trends and Signals for the Library of the Future

How can foresight and trend scanning help us envision the libraries of the future? How can all of us become better skilled at thinking about and talking with our communities about the trends and signals that will transform our libraries and communities? This session will draw on some of the lessons learned by ALA's Center for the Future of Libraries, the trend scanning that they are promoting, and some of the connections that can be made from futuring to innovation for better libraries.

From Futuring to Innovation

In this interactive session, attendees will take some of the trend scanning from the Center for the Future of Libraries – as well as their own community insights and evidence – and consider a positive innovation for the future of libraries. This activity helps demonstrate how we can all use a futures-focused approach, and our commitment to library values, to help build the libraries of the future.

REMEMBERING THE PAST

Nebraska Writer's Guild members will share information about their Six Corners of Nebraska workshop series in celebration of Nebraska's Sesquicentennial year along with other exciting events planned this year.

Attendees are encouraged to bring information to share about activities taking place in their communities for this special year in Nebraska's history.

To register go to <http://www.nebraskalibraries.org/events/EventDetails.aspx?id=947601&group=> or click on PLTS/SCYP Spring Meetings link at the NLA web site.

Anyone with questions may contact PLTS Chair, Deb Robertson at drobotson@cityofyork.net or SCYP Chair, Karen Berry at kberry@omahalibrary.org

A special thanks to the Nebraska Library Systems for their financial support of our Spring Meetings!

This activity is supported in part with funding from the State of Nebraska and from the Institute of Museum and Library Services under the provision of the Library Services and Technology Act as administered by the Nebraska Library Commission.

Vernon Library Grants

Vernon Library Supplies is giving away 100% of its 2017 operating profits to libraries and other non-profit organizations with programs designed to help new immigrants achieve English literacy and proficiency.

On December 1, 2017 Vernon will begin giving out grants of up to $5,000. Grant application forms must be submitted no later than midnight, October 31, 2017 EDT.

Why is Vernon doing this? Both of Vernon's owners, the wife and husband team of Judy and Shai Robkin, turn 65 this spring. They are not retiring but believe that their retirement savings are sufficient enough so that they can afford to forgo an entire year's profit to support a cause that is so personally important to them. Shai, Vernon's President, believes that "Immigrants and their successful integration into the country have been critical to what has made America into the wonderful country it is. "From our work with libraries for now well over three decades, we have seen the incredible work that libraries have done helping new Americans gain the English proficiency needed for both the workplace and the social sphere. We owe our libraries a great debt of gratitude for this and for so many other things."

See the grant application here: <http://www.vernonlibrarysupplies.com/grants>

Delegating: When, How and to Whom?

Webinar from the Utah State Library presented by Linda Bruno, written up by Sharon Osenga

Why delegating is important:

- Gives you more time to manage
- Give you more time to do your work
- Builds trust with employees
- Develops talent in employees
- You share your workload
- You train your replacement
- It shows confidence - both in yourself and in the other person
- Improves library morale
- Increases productivity
- Increases retention
- Makes work more fun!

If we don't delegate:

- Employees get bored
- There is a lack of motivation
- Employees cannot grow—they leave
- No new ideas are being introduced

Why aren't we better at delegating?

- Anything you can do, I can do better
- We feel threatened
- Other person doesn't work the way we work
- It's risky to trust someone else
- We don't want to give it up—territorial
- Guilt: we feel guilt asking others to do what we can do ourselves

Checklist to cover everything when delegating to others:

Resources: What is available to them?

Instructions: Include all details, data, etc.

Completion Date: Set a clear deadline

Expectations: Set out the outcomes and results you expect

Talent: What talent do they bring to the project?

Why: Why is the task important?

Input: Get their feedback; check for understanding

Checkpoints: Schedule times to touch base

Empowerment: How far does their authority go? What needs prior approval? By whom?

First things first:

1. Prioritize assignments, decisions, and other work.
2. Decide which tasks can be delegated.
3. Analyze your staff and decide who could best handle each assignment.
4. Delegate the assignment.
5. Control the delegation. That means making sure you've done everything you can to make the delegation a success. It does not mean standing over them and micromanaging.

Key Points to Consider When Delegating:

- Is the employee knowledgeable?
- What skills and abilities does the employee bring?
- What special talents do they have that will fit this project?
- How motivated would this employee be to participate?
- What are your library's needs?
- What is the employee's current workload?
- What would the impact be on other employees?
- What are the risks of delegating this particular task?
- What are the needs of the employee?
- If others will be involved, what personal influence does the employee have?
- Does the employee have the communications skills needed?
- Do they need to be detail-oriented?
- Will this assignment help the employee grow?

Remember:

1. Delegate completely. Don't be a babysitter.
2. Give credit.
3. Put assignments in writing, including deadlines.
4. Encourage independence.
5. Show interest and appreciation.
6. Be open to new ideas and methods.
7. Accept mistakes. Note that in libraries, no one dies if something is done incorrectly.
8. JUST DO IT!!

The Central Plains Library System is declaring April 2017, a "Month of Weeding"!

We want to encourage everyone to participate by agreeing to weed a section of their library that they have been avoiding. You know what it is—that corner, that shelf, that genre of books that you have put off weeding for a while. Now's the time! ALL Libraries in CPLS are eligible to participate!

How to Participate:

1. Send Sharon or Denise an email at sharonosenga@gmail.com or denise.cpls@gmail.com to let us know you want to participate.
2. If you need extra encouragement or help deciding what to weed, we will be glad to give advice and to lend a helping hand. Sharon will be available to come out and help you in person.
3. After you finish your weeding project, fill out the form on our Website.

Those who submit their forms to the CPLS Office by May 10th will be entered into a drawing for a Kindle Fire! It has rear and front facing cameras, 8 GB of internal storage, and up to 7 hours of reading, surfing the web, watching videos, and listening to music. The winning library will be selected in a random drawing on Thursday, May 11, 2017.
